Moderate resid Fluid Catalytic Cracking (FCC) catalyst improves unit performance

BASF's Borotec catalyst uses novel Boron-Based Technology (BBT) to provide higher conversion and metals tolerance for a moderate resid feedstock delivering a profitability improvement of $0.23/bbl

Introduction

An FCC unit processing a moderate resid feedstock with a concarbon of 1 wt % requires good metals tolerance with increased liquid yields.

Results

Borotec was compared with another supplier's premium bottoms-upgrading technology. In the commercial trial, Borotec delivered good metals tolerance and improved liquid yields. Compared to the competitor's catalyst, Borotec enabled the refinery to:

- Improve coke selectivity
- Improve activity retention, at similar vanadium and sodium levels
- Improve bottoms upgrading
- Improve propylene and butylene yields (after catalyst optimization with a light olefins additive)
- Achieve $0.23/bbl unit profitability improvement compared to the competitor's catalyst

Post Audit on Borotec at constant coke*

	Before	After	Delta
Conversion, wt %	80	80.5	+0.5
LPG, wt %	16.9	17.0	+0.1
Gasoline, wt %	54.0	54.5	+0.5
LCO, wt %	14.2	13.9	-0.3
Slurry, wt %	5.9	5.6	-0.3
LCO/Slurry, wt/wt	2.40	2.48	+0.08

About Us

BASF's Catalysts division is the world's leading supplier of environmental and process catalysts. The group offers exceptional expertise in the development of technologies that protect the air we breathe, produce the fuels that power our world and ensure efficient production of a wide variety of chemicals, plastics and other products, including advanced battery materials. By leveraging our industry-leading R&D platforms, passion for innovation and deep knowledge of precious and base metals, BASF's Catalysts division develops unique, proprietary solutions that drive customer success.
